

ABOUT THE COLUMBIA EAST ASIA REVIEW

The Columbia East Asia Review (CEAR) is an annual, online and print, peer-review academic journal based at Columbia University in the City of New York and dedicated to furthering knowledge of East Asia through the promotion of research and interdisciplinary dialogue. CEAR has three primary goals: First, to publish superior undergraduate research of East Asia; Second, to educate undergraduate contributors and CEAR members about the academic publication process; and third, to foster interest and idea exchange in the field of East Asia Studies.

CONTACT US

We welcome feedback, suggestions, and general inquiries from our readers. Contact us at info@eastasiareview.org. To contact individual authors or members of the Editorial Board, please send your message to info@eastasiareview.org and it will be forwarded accordingly.

SUBMIT YOUR ARTICLE

If you are interested in submitting your article for publication in the Columbia East Asia Review, please visit our official website at www.eastasiareview.org and view the "Submission Guidelines." For more information, contact info@eastasiareview.org.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Columbia East Asia Review would like to thank the following organizations for their generous support: the Columbia College Student Council, the Columbia University Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, Engineering Student Council, Student Government Association, the Donald Keene Center of Japanese Culture (Hiroshi Nitta Fund), the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation Study Group, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, the Center for Korean Research, Modern Tibetan Studies, Columbia Japan Society, Chinese Students' Club, Sounds of China, the Southeast Asian League, and the Vietnamese Students' Association

CEAR is also greatly indebted to the Helvidius Group for its kind guidance and support, Professor David Lurie, Director of Undergraduate East Asian Studies at Columbia University, for his tremendous encouragement and advice, Jeffrey Shradler for his assistance with copy editing, and Jacob Weaver for everything.

Cover Design by Tedde Tsang and Annie Ma
Layout Design by Annie Ma
CEAR Logo by Hyun-Young Kim
Headings Font: Century Gothic
Body Text Font: Adobe Garamond
CEAR Logo Font: Trajan Pro

Printed by InnerWorkings, Carol Stream, IL